

Description: A data science problem that interests me is predicting the likelihood that the Detroit Lions (NFL Team) will win the Super Bowl based off of only 4 games in the current season. To do this I am calculating efficiency stats by three main areas in football: Offense, Defense & Special Teams. And then training a predictive model to predict which teams will win each game. Whichever team is predicted to win each game will be Super Bowl Champions.

